About the Asian Association of Women's Studies(AAWS)

Purpose

The AAWS is a forum for discussion and co-operation on new ideas in feminist education and research with a focus on Asia and to promote the dissemination of information on relevant community programs.

The AAWS seeks to establish an institutional basis for feminist education and research on Asia, linking associations of women's studies, research institutions, resource centers, as well as individual scholars and practitioners in the region, with the intent of addressing issues of common interest in Asia.

AAWS Membership

Two types of AAWS membership

"Institutional membership": This may be accorded to national, regional, local, and professional associations as well as research institutions in Asia.

"Individual membership": Regular, honorary, and associate membership may be accorded to individual feminist scholars, researchers, and activists.
